1. INTRODUCTION

I want to create a fun workshop where we can look at how to make jokes by using innuendo and word play in English. Also, there are various meanings connected to words or phrases in English. These workshops are for business English but it should also balance seriousness and fun.

However, in preparation, I realised I will be educating people on how to commit sexual harassment in English and potentially get you or me fired. Because I am brave and because we have a long existing relationship as 'teacher/student', I will do this workshop knowing that you know the intention of learning behind it.

EXAMPLE 1

The phrasal verb rub out:

- a) I made and error and rubbed it out quickly. [delete]
- b) I had some free time and rubbed one out quickly. [masturbate]

EXAMPLE 2

Prepositions (IN - AT - ON):

a) A Polish student once told me: 'Yesterday, I was in my dentist'.

If you look at this sentence from a technical perspective, there is only one way you can be in your dentist. Or maybe a few if you really want to be technical. But you catch my drift.

EXAMPLE 3

notice the difference in these nouns (happy ending):

a) The fairy-tale had a happy ending.

b) My massage had a happy ending.

2. DISCLAIMER

1) If you won't be offended by this content and you would enjoy it, please join tomorrow.

- 2) If you will be offended and think the content is crass plus unprofessional, please don't join.
  - I will not give 100% free reign during the workshop to make rude jokes it is supposed to be innocent fun.
  - For example: When someone falls and everyone laughs together at how silly it was vs. someone falls and everyone laughs at that person whilst the person feels embarrassed.

6. CONCLUSION

I hope today was a welcome break from the normally quite serious Business English Workshops that we have. I also hope that is was a humorous look at English which many traditional teachers would be too scared to do with you. I hope you will use this information in a playful and 'classy' way. Basically, not to be tasteless with your jokes.
